CROPS.—The wheat crop in this vicinity has been generally harvested, and from the reports of the farmers, we are satisfied that while there will be an abundance, yet the yield is a poor one, and the quality much in-ferior to the crop of last year. The prospect for corn, oats and potatoes never was better, and promises an unusual yield of superior quality. Providence has smiled upon the land and blessed our people with an abundance of all things necessary to our comfort and prosperity.
